TWO POLICEMEN OF OWENSBORO

Trail Alleged Horse Thief
To His Lair.

ONE KILLED, OTHER WOUNDED
Before They Could Draw Their Guns—Hunting a Desperate Character.

KILLING OCCURRED IN INDIANA

Owensboro, Ky., June 1.—A telephone message was received from Rockport, Ind., at 10 o'clock to-night telling of the killing of Policeman Coleman Dawson and the fatal wounding of Officer James Bell, both of the Owensboro police force, by George Blackburn, whom the officers were endeavoring to arrest on the charge of stealing a horse.

The battle between the officers and the alleged horse thief occurred about seven miles from Owensboro on the Indiana side of the river. It is said that Blackburn brought the horse alleged to have been stolen in Indiana to Owensboro and sold it to J. Ed Guenther, the proprietor of a hardware store. With part of the money obtained by the sale of the horse, Blackburn purchased two automatic revolvers and left the city.

Officers Dawson and Bell were informed to-day of the theft of the horse, and late this afternoon left for Marsden Landing, five miles east of Owensboro. It is supposed that they came upon Blackburn at a lumber camp where he was working and that the battle resulted.

Mayor Lambert and officers have left Owensboro for the scene of the crime, one posse going in an automobile and another in a motorboat. Dawson and Bell were faithful officers and have seen long service. Bell was one of the officers who engaged in the battle with Howard Mahoney in Indiana several years ago. Mahoney was wanted in Louisville for murder and was coming down the river in a skiff with a woman. He left the boat near Owensboro and struck out across the Indiana fields. He was followed by Bell and other officers and in a fight that resulted, both Mahoney and the woman were killed.

Hunting For Murderer.

Owensboro, Ky., June 2.—Though the officers of two States, Indiana and Kentucky, have been scouring Spencer and adjoining counties in Indiana for the murderer of Officer J. C. Dawson, of Owensboro, who was shot and instantly killed about 9 o'clock Saturday night, no trace of him has been found.

Posses were formed about midnight and they have been working all to-day, the officers and special deputies being joined by scores of people from both sides of the river. The instructions that were issued to all of the officers were that they were to shoot on sight.

Descriptions of the murderer were sent to all of the cities and towns within a radius of 200 miles, and the detective department of Evansville, thirty miles from the scene of the shooting, stationed men on all of the traction and railroad lines. It is believed that every possible means of escape is being watched and that the man's whereabouts will be discovered within a few hours.

It was learned early this morning that Blackburn, the man who did the shooting, is also known as McNamara, and that he had said that he was a cousin of the notorious McNamaras of dynamiting fame.

The shooting was a most tragic one. The officers had been informed that Blackburn was in an old mill shack and that he was heavily armed, so that they were cautious in approaching the place. They hitched the horse they were driving about 100 yards from the shack and attempted to conceal their approach by keeping in the cover of a hedge row. When nearing the edge of the hedge, Blackburn suddenly stepped out and without a word of warning began to fire with both of the automatic guns that he carried, when only about four feet from the officers.

Officer Bell, who was with Dawson and who was himself shot three times, made the following statement:

"Neither of us had time to fire. Blackburn started shooting with both guns, aiming at Dawson with his right hand and at me with his left. Dawson fell at the first shot. I fell at the second, but managed to rise and draw my revolver. I tried to pull the trigger, but could not do so. Two other shots had crashed through my right arm. The man then ran through the thicket and disappeared. I went over to Dawson, but he was apparently dead. I then got the buggy and hurried to a house about a half mile away, where I told the people to telephone to Owensboro for the doctors and for the police. I started on, trying to get to a telephone myself, but fainted and fell out of the buggy. Neither Mr. Dawson nor I fired a single shot."

Closing in On Murderer.

Owensboro, Ky., June 3.—Believing they have absolutely correct information as to the whereabouts of George Blackburn, who murdered Officer Coleman Dawson, and seriously wounded Officer James Bell, a posse led by Officers Robbins, Hayes, Lyons, Bellow, Williams, Barker and McAtee are now enroute to a canebrake on the Indiana side of the river and are beating the brush for the desperado, who is said to be badly wounded and in hiding near a house where his sweetheart lives.

The whereabouts of the wounded murderer was learned through Miss Bessie Camp, who came to Owensboro this evening and said that a pool of blood had been discovered on the porch of her home, where the man had obtained his hat and coat Saturday night, after having shot the Owensboro policeman, and that he was being carried food by his sweetheart.

The Owensboro and Indiana officials arrested George Campbell, a young white man, who is said to have been with Blackburn at the time the Owensboro officers were fired on, and who is believed to have fired some shots. Ella Campbell, who is alleged to be Blackburn's sweetheart, was arrested at Rockport, Ind. The posse is planning to close in on Blackburn.

ALLEGED NIGHT RIDERS ARRESTED IN ARKANSAS

Are Accused of Threatening Negroes Employed by White Farmers.

Jonesboro, Ark., June 1.—Deputy Sheriff's Burt and Mark Phillips to-day arrested 46 citizens of Promised Land, residing in the western part of the county. They will be given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace V. A. Barnette, of this city, to answer a charge of night riding.

The warrants were issued on an affidavit of Deputy Prosecuting Attorney N. F. Lamb, in pursuance to information filed by Joe Stidham and J. N. Whipple, two farmers, who have recently taken negroes on their farms, a section of the county where negroes have never before resided. The white citizens were so angered that they gave the negroes a written notice advising them they must leave the county or suffer serious consequences.

The men were very bold in their threats, even going so far as to sign their own names to the paper instead of fictitious names, as is usually the case.

The farmers have been unable to get white labor, and as it was their only way to work their land, they imported the negro laborers.

The officers and farmers are determined to show the people that the negroes shall not be harmed as long as they attend to their own affairs. It is said some of the men arrested are to be held to await the action of the grand jury.

Distressing Accident.

Princeton, Ind., June 1.—Stephen Meade, a young farmer near Ft. Branch, in his yard this morning shot at a weasel which was running up a hill. He failed to see his wife in some bushes between, and the full charge of the shotgun entered her breast. She will die. The husband is prostrated.

Lightning struck a tree in Barren county and killed eighteen fine sheep belonging to J. H. Newland, a well known farmer of that section.

A ROYAL WELCOME AWAITS TEACHERS

At Kentucky Educational Convention

TO BE HELD IN LOUISVILLE

On June 25-27—Teachers Especially Being Urged To Attend.

BOARD ISSUES AN INVITATION

Louisville's interest in educational advancement for Kentucky has been demonstrated in the invitations sent broadcast through the State asking the co-operation of the public throughout Kentucky in making the convention of the Kentucky Educational Association, to be held in Louisville the last week in this month, a great success. The responses received indicate a wave of enthusiastic interest on the part of the people of the State, according to educational leaders in Louisville.

One of the latest invitations to go out was sent by the Board of Education of Louisville to each city and town board of education in Kentucky. The letter was issued after formal action taken by the city school board, when the members unanimously instructed the president and the superintendent to send forth such a greeting. The invitation in full, addressed directly to each county and city superintendent, is as follows:

"On behalf of the Board of Education of Louisville, we cordially invite you and the other members of your board to visit Louisville on the occasion of the annual session of the Kentucky Educational Association, June 25, 26 and 27. You are invited to visit and inspect our school buildings and equipment, in addition to attendance on the lectures and special addresses which will be given.

"Every endeavor is being put forth to make this convention of men and women interested in educational advancement the greatest event of like character ever held in this or any other State of the South. A program of extraordinary worth has been outlined by the officers of the Kentucky Educational Association. Among the notable speakers will be the Hon. P. P. Claxton, United States Commissioner of Education; Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Brooklyn, and David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, of California.

"It is hoped that your board will share this invitation with the teachers in your schools and with the men and women in your community who are interested in the training of the children of our State and who would see Kentucky elevated from the lowly position, educationally, she has occupied in the past.

Hoping that you will accept our invitation, we are very sincerely yours,

"I. N. BLOOM, President.
"E. O. HOLLAND, Supt."

HANGED THREE NEGROES
FROM SAME SCAFFOLD

Jacksonville, Fla., May 31.—Eugene Baxter, alias Eugene Nelson, Tom White and Steve Johnson, all negroes, were hanged at St. Augustine this morning from the same scaffold. Baxter and Johnson were convicted of the murder of Simon Silverstein, a Jacksonville grocer, on March 2. Johnson confessed to the murder of another negro in St. Johns county. Baxter and White denied any knowledge of the crime for which they died, professing their innocence even on the scaffold.

Executed in Alabama.
Montgomery, Ala., May 31.—A special to the Journal from Marion, Ala., says:

Philip Travers, convicted for the murder of Foxall, the young Southern railway flagman at Taylor's Station, was hanged here this morning. His neck was broken and he died in fifteen minutes.

According to reports in Washington, C. D. Hilles is President Taft's choice for chairman of the National Committee.

THE BANNER OF SPEAKER CLARK

Heads United Forces of Kentucky Democrats.

STATE LEADERSHIP PRICE PAID

By Ollie James for Delegates
Who Are Instructed for Missourian.

GREAT ORGANIZATION WORK

Louisville, Ky., June 3.—Kentucky's Democratic warriors have been to battle and the soldiers have returned to their homes, some wearing the laurel wreaths of victory and the others scarred and wounded, but all united under the banner for Speaker Champ Clark for the Democratic nomination for President.

The State convention held in Louisville on Wednesday to select delegates to the Baltimore convention and to name the party organization that is to conduct the Democratic party's affairs in Kentucky for the next four years, was a battle royal. United States Senator-elect Ollie M. James offered himself as a sacrifice on a Champ Clark altar. He secured instructions for the Speaker in this State, but lost everything else so far as convention plums were concerned. However, it required the Governor of the State, the entire army of office holders, the State organization and the combined power of Kentucky's so-called Millionaires' Club to down the Congressman from the First District.

When Mr. James first declared that Kentucky should instruct its delegates to Baltimore for Speaker Clark, Governor McCreary, General Haly, J. C. C. Mayo and all the other leaders of the State administration were opposed to instructions. Had the fight not been made by Mr. James there is no doubt but that the Kentuckians would have gone to Baltimore uninstructed and would have been free to have cast their votes for Wilson, Harmon or any other candidates favored by this small but powerful body of men. The fight for Clark aroused the Democrats of this State like wildfire. When the shrewd politicians who had been opposing instructions saw that the Clark boom had gripped practically every congressional district of the State, Governor McCreary announced that he was for "Cousin Champ Clark," and immediately proceeded to crawl into the Clark band wagon. Following the Governor came the others and then the fight for the control of the State convention developed into an organization fight. Mr. James' friends and the original Clark men felt that they were entitled to control the convention and to send the delegates to Baltimore.

They insisted on the Senator-elect being the temporary Chairman of the convention. Mr. James had been for Urey Woodson for re-election as National Committeeman all the time, and inasmuch as it had been reported for months that the State administration favored Mr. Mayo for National Committeeman, Mr. Woodson and his friends enlisted under the James banner. In the meantime the State administration forces, realizing that they had but one man who could make a fight against Mr. James, selected Governor McCreary as their candidate for the temporary Chairmanship. Perhaps there was never in public life in Kentucky a more popular man than Ollie M. James. He certainly has no peer in the State as an orator. When he arose and placed himself in nomination for the temporary chairmanship, the enthusiasm for him was so great that the convention hall was the scene of the wildest disorder. Delegates thought it was a stampede, but it wasn't. Delegates selected by General Haly, J. C. W. Beckham, John C. C. Mayo and other politicians of their foresight, do not stampede. To be stampeded is about the last thing that would happen to them. They are all practical. They stand hitched. They were selected to vote, and that is all they do. They don't mind applauding and cheering Ollie James, and they will all tell any one who asks them that they love Ollie better than their lives.

They will all say that they hated to vote against him. But they did, and would have done so had the oratory become so warm and fervid that it would have scorched the seats in which they sat. So, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. James received a remarkable ovation and was apparently the idol of the hour, the delegates from the Haly school, like Spartan soldiers, immediately proceeded to set in motion the works that made Gov. McCreary temporary Chairman of the convention and settled a long-drawn-out fight. After the Chairmanship fight had been settled, the rest was easy.

Urey Woodson, who has been Democratic National Committeeman from Kentucky since 1896, and who is now the Secretary of the National Committee, was scalped and his commission as National Committeeman was pinned on Mr. Mayo, the Eastern Kentucky millionaire. For nearly 20 years Mr. Woodson has been a familiar figure in the national councils of the party. Mr. Mayo becomes the Owensboro man's successor, and will no doubt become as conspicuous a figure as Mr. Woodson was.

While the close friends and supporters of Senator James were downhearted and crestfallen over his defeat for the temporary Chairmanship, it cannot be denied that had he not made the fight, the aim which he first had in mind, that of securing instructions for Speaker Clark, would not have been accomplished.

Judge S. W. Hager, of Owensboro, who was Governor Woodrow Wilson's representative in Kentucky, did not get much comfort out of the State convention. The Judge realized, however, that there was little or no chance to do anything for Governor Wilson with the Clark leaders making the fight that they made and the surrender of the State administration forces to the Clark sentiment. However, Judge Hager is still of the opinion that Governor Wilson will be nominated at Baltimore.

LITTLE RHODE ISLAND ALSO GOES FOR CLARK

Returns Show He Got a Big Majority Over Wilson and Harmon.

Providence, R. I., May 31.—The Democratic voters of Rhode Island, at the Presidential preference primary to-day, favored Champ Clark by a large majority over Woodrow Wilson and Judson Harmon, the other two names on the ballot. With the town of Exeter and four wards in the city of Providence missing, the returns give:

Clark, 5,016; Wilson, 1,422, and Harmon 453.

Although the contest was very close, the returns indicated that George W. Green had been re-elected National Committeeman, defeating Congressman George P. O'Shaughnessy.

Speaker Clark's supporters made the only active campaign in the State, the work done in the interest of Gov. Wilson being confined to placing advertisements in the papers yesterday. The vote was light.

The primary was held under the direction of the Democratic State Committee in the absence of a State primary law, it being agreed that the delegates should abide by the wishes expressed in the preferential voting.

Bradley For Governor.

Louisville, Ky., June 3.—A report from Washington has reached this city to the effect that the friends of Senator Bradley are preparing to build up an organization to nominate him for Governor. The report says that Senator Bradley plan, and says that he does not want another office.

The Preference.

The Democrats of Kentucky still prefer the "Beckham-Haly-Rheavansant-Mayo-Millionaire Club," with a 31,000 Democratic majority, to Watterson and the Whiskey Trust with a Republican majority of 18,000.—[Cadiz Record.]

Dr. E. W. Ford and children went to Fordsville Saturday. Dr. Ford returned home Monday. His daughters, Nancy, Amby and son Edward Ford will make an extended visit to relatives.

REBEL LEADER SENDS WARNING

To Our State and War Department

ANENT SITUATION IN MEXICO

Orozco Asserts He Can No Longer Protect American Lives and Property.

PRESIDENT TAFT IS BLAMED

Washington, June 1.—An official notice from Orozco, the insurgent Mexican leader, that he can no longer guarantee even a measure of security to Americans in Chihuahua, has awakened the State and War Department to the most alarming situation that has arisen in Mexico since the outbreak of the rebellion.

In plain language, Orozco advises the United States to expect murder in that State and informs them of his absolute helplessness to put down the violence that he expects.

In the face of this intelligence this Government is practically as helpless as the insurgents' chieftain to protect its own citizens. The Madero army is beleaguered in Northern Mexico. The United States army is without power or authority to cross the border, and none of Orozco's military lieutenants have sufficient force to cope with the outlaws and bandits who, taking advantage of the unsettled conditions, are flocking into Chihuahua, bent on pillage and murder.

To the contention of Orozco that the Taft Administration is responsible for the peril of Americans now resident in the threatened district, the diplomats of the State Department have no answer. It is admitted that the President neutralized his own program of neutrality by refusing to permit ammunition to cross the border for rebel leaders as well as Federals, thereby enhancing the hatred of the latter faction for Americans.

While Orozco, in his official communication, lays stress on his helplessness, it is believed here that, while his enmity has been aroused by what he considers unfair dealing, he could have found means to protect the lives and property of Americans.

In fact the notice he has served on the Government is construed as a virtual threat that he will make no effort to guard any save his own interests. And those who are familiar with conditions in Mexico are fully aware of the deadly import of such a threat.

His manifesto, delivered into the hands of the American Consul, Marion Letcher, has been the sole topic of conversation both in the State and War Departments to-day, and many of these are outspoken in their belief that the rebel chieftain intends it only as a warning that he means to "get even."

It is generally commented on by men in both departments that Taft's attitude toward Cuba is diametrically opposed to his attitude toward Mexico.

As soon as he learned that the property of the Bethlehem Steel Company at Managua, Cuba, was endangered, half the splendid Atlantic fleet was mobilized and preparations were made to land 5,000 blue jackets and marines on a few hours' notice.

The reign of terror in Northern Mexico for the last six months has been met only by proclamations which scared nobody and only serve to infuriate the rebels.

So far as can be learned, neither the President nor the chiefs of the two departments involved took any action on the Orozco warning. No Cabinet officer was on duty. The division heads of the War Department took the matter under consideration, but were without authority to proceed.

The men in immediate charge of troops maintain that the forces now on the border are sufficient to restore peace, and are eagerly awaiting an order to move them. They hold that a motionless army on the border, while terrorized Americans are leaving Mexico by the ship load, is a spectacle that will only hasten the acts of violence which Orozco predicts so confidently.

AND DEMOCRATS IN CONGRESS

Kentucky Party Men Give Reason for Faith That Is in Them.

A DOCUMENT WORTH READING

A strong indorsement of the candidacy of Champ Clark for President, and pledging him Kentucky's vote was the chief feature of the report of the Resolutions' Committee of the State Democratic Convention held in Louisville last week, which was as follows:

"Be it resolved, by the Democrats of Kentucky, in delegate convention assembled, regularly begun and held in Louisville, Kentucky, May 29, 1912, that

"First—As Americans, proud and jealous of our country's name and position among the nations of the world, we deplore the humiliating contest now being waged by the President and ex-President of the United States for the Republican nomination.

"We congratulate the people of the nation upon the unity of purpose existing among the Democrats everywhere and the clear signs of approaching victory next November and the election then of a Democratic President and Vice President, and thereby restoring this Government again to the people, and taking it from the trusts, monopolies and protected interests of the country.

"Second—We reaffirm our allegiance and devotion to the principles of our party as expressed in the series of national platforms, and especially in the national platform adopted at Denver in 1908.

"Third—We indorse the Democratic record of the National House of Representatives, and of Democratic Senators in their efforts to fulfill Democratic promises and pledges made to the people.

"Fourth—The only justification for the levying of custom or other taxes is the raising of the necessary revenues for the economical conduct of the Government, and we pledge our party to so revise the tariff laws, that the heavy burdens now imposed for the benefit of the special interests may be lifted from the shoulders of the great masses of our people. We denounce the Republican party for its failure to give such relief and especially for its enactment of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

"In addition to the repeal of the protective tariff laws which have created and fostered the trusts, we promise such legislation as may be necessary to strengthen existing anti-trust laws, and make certain the punishment of all those controlling and profiting by such unlawful combinations.

"Fifth—We with pleasure announce that we favor the nomination of one of Kentucky's native sons, the Hon. Speaker Champ Clark, of Missouri, as the Democratic candidate for President of the United States, and declare that he is worthy of the confidence and support of all Democrats and all other patriotic citizens.

"Sixth—The delegates-at-large, selected by this convention and the delegates from each and every Congressional district of Kentucky are instructed to cast their votes as a unit in the approaching Baltimore convention for the nomination of the Hon. Champ Clark for President as long as his name shall be before that convention, and to use all honorable effort to secure his nomination.

"Seventh—We heartily indorse the present able and progressive administration of our State under our officers, led by our distinguished Governor, the Hon. James B. McCreary, and we indorse the fulfillment by the recent General Assembly of the promises made by our party in its State platform adopted in 1911.

"Eighth—In the interest of the farmer, the wage earner and business man, we favor an honest revision of our national banking and currency laws which will create a safe and elastic system, preserve the independent banks, prevent any dominant political or financial control and render recurring panics, with their attendant loss and suffering, impossible."

BRINGING OUT THE OLD FARM

By Systematic Rotation Of Crops.

SOME HINTS WORTH HEEDING

How Bald Spots and Wrinkles Can Be Easily Turned Into Fertility.

TOO MUCH TOBACCO A CURSE

A practical and progressive Kentucky farmer writes as follows in a farm Journal. The farm on which I now live has been owned by the family over one hundred years, and while most of it is yet fairly fertile, some of the upland fields are showing the bald spots and wrinkles of age, and to make the whole farm better and more productive is my aim. First, we save all the forage grown on farm and feed to stock of all kinds and return to the land all refuse from stock barns. Have spread 50 loads of manure and expect to have at least 50 more to spread before corn planting time. Want to sow 40 or 50 acres to cow peas and soy beans, have 30 acres in rye, some to turn under green and part to cut for grain. A five-acre field near one of our stock barns 10 years ago was grown up in gumach, sassafras and persimmon bushes and was badly washed and was not considered worth clearing, but we had faith in a proper rotation and manuring and put it in corn the first year and got ten bushels per acre. Followed with wheat, then cow peas, next rye. Last crop of peas so rank we could hardly run a mower through them; now in rye to put in corn the coming season and we want to crowd the 100 bushel mark. Deep plowing, careful cultivation, sowing rye, cow peas or soy beans and various clovers to be fed to good live stock, and manure put back on the land, puts a smile on the face of the old field that will not easily wear off. Give to the land good measure and you receive good measure, full up and running over. For many years tobacco has been a curse to this section, as many land owners and tenants grow tobacco almost exclusively, but some of our best farmers are practicing diversified farming, as they realize that the land will not always yield bumper crops of any one thing. Grow peas and other forage crops in summer and rye or crimson clover in fall and winter, and keep plenty of live stock, apply the refuse to land, read good agricultural papers and rest assured that "seed time and harvest will not fail."

An Absent-Minded Professor.

A very absent-minded professor was busily engaged in solving a scientific problem when the nurse hastily opened the library door and announced a great family event.

"The little stranger has arrived, Professor."

"Eh?" said the professor.

"It is a little boy," said the nurse.

"Little boy, little boy," mused the professor. "Well, ask him what he wants."—[June Woman's Home Companion.]

GRIM RECORD OF THE GREAT TILLY

Who Fought for Enslavement of Race.

A LOWLY SWEDISH BABE BORN

To Oppose Tilly and Deliver His People—Liberty Partially Won.

STIRRING TIMES 17TH CENTURY

Two hundred and eighty years ago died Johann Tserclaes Tilly, one of the greatest captains of modern times.

The seventeenth century is one of the most important periods in the history of the human race. It settled things, and settled them for all time. To no period of the human story are the poets words so thoroughly applicable as they are to that thrilling century: "We are living, we are dwelling, in a grand and awful time."

The holiest interests of humanity were at stake. The principles upon which all national healthy progress depends were imperiled. It was indeed an awful time, that seventeenth century.

At the head of the Progressives stood Gustavus Adolphus, justly regarded as one of the greatest and noblest figures in history, while leading on the Reactionists was Tilly, one of the greatest of battle winners—cruel, remorseless, terrible.

Gustavus was fighting to make men free; Tilly was fighting to keep men in slavery. Gustavus was the champion of progress of mental liberty, of the right to think of the civilization of culture, freedom and individuality, while Tilly's super-genius was being used to perpetuate the tyranny of old custom and authority, the privilege of caste, the right of a few to dictate to the many the way they should live and think.

Tilly was thirty-five years old, and already a distinguished general, when (in 1594) Gustavus was born. Nobody thought that in the little Swedish babe humanity was to find the destroyer of the Apollon that was threatening to blot out the rights and blast the hopes of the ages. But it was even so.

In the Swede, Tilly more than met his match, and at the great battle of Breitenfeld, or Leipsic, went down before him in ignominious and overwhelming defeat.

Fortunately for the world, a greater than Tilly had come, and the future of humanity was secure. The hopes of the ages were not to be blotted out. The mind of the race was not to be throttled and degraded. Liberty was to live, and grow, and flourish until she should bless all men's lives with her golden fruit.

It was in September, 1631, that Tilly and his imperial forces were beaten at Breitenfeld, and the following spring—April, 1632—the great captain was mortally wounded while fleeing before Gustavus and his Swedes at the battle of the Lech.

Tilly's death was no loss to the human race. He was one of humanity's worst enemies. But for the terrible Tilly, Bohemia would in all probability be a free land today, as well as other countries that might be mentioned. But for the ravages of Tilly's brilliant but savage genius, much of the degradation and misery under which Europe still groans might never have existed.—[Rev. Thos. B. Gregory in Chicago Examiner.]

McCREARY WON CHAIRMANSHIP Of the Democratic State Convention. AND VANSANT FOR CHAIRMAN Of State Executive Commit- tee—Unanimous Instruc- tions for Clark.

J. C. C. MAYO COMMITTEEMAN

Delegates-at-Large to National Convention—John C. C. Mayo, Gov. James B. McCreary, J. C. W. Beckham, Ollie M. James, Allie W. Young, Justus Goebel, Ben Johnson, A. Owsley Stanley.

Alternates—Walter L. Hawkins, A. D. Martin, B. W. Bradburn, Ben V. Smith, M. M. Redwine, N. W. Utley, Herman Southall, J. A. Donnellson.

National Committeeman—J. C. C. Mayo.

Electors State-at-Large—Robert Harding and H. V. McChesney.

Assistants—H. M. Merideth and Charles Montgomery.

Central Committee—R. H. Vansant, Chairman; W. B. White, Member-at-Large.

Executive Committee—A. G. Rhea, Member-at-Large.

Gov. James B. McCreary was elected temporary chairman of the Democratic State Convention over Senator-elect Ollie M. James Wednesday by the vote of 662 4-5 to 561 1-5, his majority being 101 3-5. It was not until State Chairman Brewitt announced that Kenton county's forty-three votes had been cast for Gov. McCreary that the latter's friends breathed easily. The moment the announcement was made, however, McCreary delegates sent up a cheer that echoed and re-echoed throughout the convention hall. It meant that their candidate had won, and that Congressman James had gone down in defeat.

With the fight for the temporary chairmanship out of the way, another spirited contest between the opposing factions came up near midnight when the name of Urey Woodson for national committeeman to succeed himself was presented in an amendment to the majority report of the Committee on Organization, offered by the minority of that committee. This resulted in a motion to substitute the name of John C. C. Mayo for that of Mr. Woodson, the latter motion winning, on a roll-call of counties, by the vote of 698 1-6 to 492 5-6, a majority of 205 2-6 votes.

Rufus H. Vansant was elected chairman of the State Central Committee without opposition, the name of John M. Stevenson, of Winchester, not being presented to the convention. Mr. Stevenson said that following the defeat of Senator-elect James, he realized the futility of continuing his fight, although he believed that some of the counties that went against James would have voted for him. He said he entered the race in what he believed to be the interest of party harmony and felt no soreness over his defeat.

The convention instructed Kentucky's delegates to the National Democratic Convention to be held in Baltimore for Champ Clark for President.

The outstanding feature of the convention was the speech of Congressman James, placing himself in nomination. It took the opposition completely by surprise, and for a brief period all but lifted them from their feet.

A demonstration, rarely equaled in any convention hall, followed the disclosure by the big Congressman that he was placing himself in nomination for the temporary chairmanship, and he all but stamped the convention in his favor. With the excitement of the moment over, however, the delegates, upon roll-call, voted as they evidently previously had made up their minds to do.

Congressman James carried forty of the 120 counties in the convention and divided the vote with Gov. McCreary in eight others. Those counties that gave him their full support were: Allen, Anderson, Bracken, Butler, Campbell, Carlisle, Clark, Crittenden, Davess, Edmonson, Fayette, Floyd, Fulton, Graves, Grayson, Hancock, Harrison, Henderson, Hopkins, Jefferson, Knox, Larue, Laurel, Livingston, Lyon, Marshall, McCracken, McLean, Meade, Menifee, Nelson, Nicholas, Ohio, Oldham, Scott and Union.

The Organization Committee organized with Allie W. Young as chairman and G. H. Briggs as secretary. A subcommittee was appointed, consisting of Allie W. Young, chairman; M. M. Redwine, T. Ray and Jacob Roll, to draft resolutions and a party law, to be submitted to the committee. After working on the matter for over three hours, they made a report which was adopted by the committee. R. H. Vansant was named in the resolutions as chairman of the State Central and Executive Committees; W. B. White, of Montgomery, member of the State Central Committee, and A. G. Rhea, of Logan county, State Executive Committee from the State-at-large. An amendment to the party law made three instead of two members in addition to those elected by congressional districts.

Delegates and alternates from the State-at-large to the Baltimore convention were named as follows: Gov. James B. McCreary, delegate; Walter S. Hawkins, alternate. Ollie James, delegate; A. D. Martin, alternate.

J. C. W. Beckham, delegate; B. W. Bradburn, alternate.

John C. C. Mayo, delegate; Ben V. Smith, alternate.

Allie W. Young, delegate; M. M. Redwine, alternate.

Ben Johnson, delegate; N. W. Utley, alternate.

Justus Goebel, delegate; Herman Southall, alternate.

A. O. Stanley, delegate; J. A. Donnellson, alternate.

The following were named in the resolutions as electors for the State-at-large: Robert Harding, of Boyle county, and H. V. McChesney, of Franklin county. Assistant electors were named as follows: H. M. Merideth, of Muhlenberg county, and Charles Montgomery, of Casey county.

The party law was practically unchanged in the report of the committee, the only appreciable change being elimination of sections that are covered by the primary law and allowing appeal of contests to the State Central and Executive Committees in joint session.

The third Saturday in January, 1913, is named as the date for electing precinct committeemen.

Henry DeHaven Moorman, of Breckenridge county, and Bob Layman, of Elizabethtown, took charge of the Fourth District Convention soon after it was called to order by State Executive Committeeman Sam T. Spalding. There was but the slightest suggestion of a hitch in the program and the administration forces, after taking the first hurdle—the race for delegates to the National Convention—in easy fashion, were never headed.

The only attempt at resistance to the program as mapped out by the administration leaders, came in the race for National Committeeman, in which John C. C. Mayo defeated Urey Woodson by a vote of 84 to 35. Meade, Washington, Larue and Ohio counties stood firmly for Woodson.

On motion of Layman, Judge Dave McCandless was made chairman of the convention, with C. P. Bradbury, of Bullitt county, secretary. When the race for delegates to Baltimore was called, Layman nominated J. L. Druin, of Nelson county, and Morris Beard, of Breckenridge, J. D. Wilson, of Green county, was nominated by J. R. Sanders, but after four counties had been called, the latter asked that his name be withdrawn in the interest of harmony.

When Layman introduced a motion to instruct the delegates to the National Convention to vote for Mayo for committeeman, a motion was made by former Congressman Dave Smith to substitute the name of Urey Woodson. A motion to table both the motion and amendment was lost and the vote by counties called. W. B. Hill, nominated for the Credentials Committee, withdrew after four counties had been called. The following were named:

Convention Vice President—Will Jackson, of Taylor county.

Delegates National Convention—J. L. Druin, of Nelson county, and Morris Beard, of Breckenridge county.

Alternates—W. O. Jones, of Grayson county, and C. J. Hubbard, of Larue county.

Presidential Elector—R. L. Durham, of Green county.

Assistant Elector—John Campbell, of Grayson county.

State Central Committeeman—W. C. Montgomery, of Hardin county.

State Executive Committeeman—Sam T. Spalding, of Marion county. Member Committee of Resolutions—Judge J. S. Glean, of Ohio county.

Organization—C. R. Cardin, of Hart county.

Credentials—H. G. Sanders, of Taylor county.

PROHIBITIONISTS NAME ELECTORS At Their State Convention in Louisville.

AN ALL-DAY SESSION WAS HELD

Three Congressional Candidates Announced and National Delegates Named.

DECLARE OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

Delegates to the National Prohibition Convention, to be held at Atlantic City, July 10, 11 and 12, thirteen Presidential electors and three candidates for Congress, from Kentucky districts, were selected at the annual convention of the Kentucky State Prohibition party at the First Christian church in Louisville last week. The platform of the party was read and adopted. An all-day session was held, ending with an address on prohibition by Daniel A. Poling, candidate for Governor of Ohio on the Prohibition ticket. The subject of his talk was "The Present Crisis."

Thirty-five delegates and about the same number of alternates to the national gathering were elected.

Delegates—S. W. Anderson, Owensboro; C. B. Thornton, Owensboro; Col. T. B. Demaree, Wilmore; Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp, Lexington; the Rev. S. E. Crossfield, Lexington; A. W. Carpenter, Moreland; James K. Baughman, Stanford; Mrs. Laura Pritchett, Madisonville; Louis Hancock, Providence; H. S. D. Wright, Louisville; Col. George W. Bain, Lexington; C. A. Singer, Louisville; Mrs. Julia R. Gunn, Lexington; S. D. Cruse, Louisville; John M. Greer, Bowling Green; the Rev. H. Boyce Taylor, Murray; the Rev. H. D. Redd, Paintsville; the Rev. L. G. Jordan, Louisville; Huston Quin, Louisville; Charles Brevard, Franklin; L. Spindle, Louisville; Dr. R. B. Cassidy, LaGrange; Mrs. Laura N. Comer, Louisville; N. J. Cone, Moreland; R. H. Geiger, Louisville; A. J. Eline, St. Matthews; Brad Martin, Newport; Dr. Joe Morris, Sulphur; the Rev. Andrew Johnson, Wilmore; Dr. Harry A. Davidson, Louisville; Mrs. Mary K. Venable, Louisville; the Rev. J. W. Hughes, Kingswood; Mrs. Georgiana Wright, Louisville; S. G. Patrick, Kimbrell; Luther Eastin, Henderson.

The Presidential electors chosen are as follows: First district, the Rev. W. A. Flite, Paducah; Second district, Louis Hancock, Owensboro; Third district, the Rev. Charles Bravard, Franklin; Fourth district, the Rev. R. H. Rowe, Shepherdsville; Fifth district, Dr. J. B. Stroud, Highland Park; Sixth district, A. E. Pittsinger, Latonia; Seventh district, W. G. Patrick, Kimbrell; Eighth district, Andrew Johnson, Wilmore; Ninth district, A. T. O'Rear, Cynthia; Tenth district, the Rev. J. D. Redd, Paintsville; Eleventh district, John C. Ogden, Somerset.

T. B. Demaree and Adam W. Carpenter were chosen as delegates-at-large. Col. Demaree also was chosen to represent the State at "Hero" night at the national gathering.

Only three candidates for Congress were nominated. The Rev. J. W. Wheeler, Glasgow; C. A. Singer, Louisville, and Mrs. Beauchamp were chosen to make the race in the Third, Fifth and Seventh districts, respectively. Candidates in the other districts will be selected by the Executive Committee. The old officers of the Executive Committee were re-elected by acclamation. Mrs. Beauchamp and Col. Demaree were re-elected national committeemen from the State.

The convention was presided over by H. S. D. Wright, of Louisville, after the body was called to order by Mrs. Beauchamp. Charles R. Jones, national chairman, addressed the gathering. He spoke of the bright outlook for the Prohibition party, owing to the splits in the ranks of the Republican and Democratic parties. He declared many additional votes would be gained by his party as a result.

"It is a crisis which I believe is facing the United States to-day," he said. "Surely the conduct of the Presidential candidates in the Republican party must disgust any sensible voter, and the Democratic candidates do not possess the confidence of the best voters."

In his talk Mr. Poling declared the Democratic and Republican parties are advocating high and low licenses as the remedy of the liquor evil. He said the leaders of those parties maintain that prohibition does not prohibit. In answer to this, he said when Prohibition fails as regulation by license has failed.

then the advocates of prohibition will seek another means of combating the evil.

Speaking of his own candidacy, he declared he was fighting a battle for justice and righteousness, even though it is an unpopular battle. He said he had but small hopes for victory, but that he expected to bring a great moral issue to the eyes of the public. He advocated woman suffrage.

CONGRESSMAN JOHNSON FIGHTING FOR ECONOMY

The cities of this country are pointed to Washington as an ideal municipal organization, but the expenses of municipal government are largely borne by the Federal treasury and economy has, until now, been an unknown quantity. Whatever Washington wanted or whatever any dreamer or real estate speculator or politician thought Washington wanted, Congress generally gave Washington.

Mr. Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, is a business man as well as a politician. Placed at the head of the District of Columbia Committee, Mr. Johnson went to work to cut down the expenses and to bring the appropriation bills within reasonable limits.

He rejected propositions calling for 2½ millions of dollars, against all the local influences that the press and the promoters could bring to bear on his committee.

Then the House passed a bill as it came from the committee and sent it to the Senate.

The Senate restored this 2½ million dollars and returned the bill to the House. The House, under the leadership of Mr. Johnson, stands pat on the measure as originally passed by the House of Representatives.

There is no more thankless task than that imposed upon a public man who undertakes to bring public appropriations within reasonable limits. "The absent are always wrong," is a French maxim, and the taxpayer is always absent. The lobbyist and the promoter, the man with an interest in the appropriation bill, is usually present.

And yet, this work is absolutely essential to the success of democracy. It is said, and it is true, that democracy is the most costly form of government. The people must pay for the privilege of governing themselves.

But they should see to it that they are not misgoverned; that their money, earned by the sweat of their face, is not wasted by genial gentlemen or by public-spirited promoters of real estate deals, artistic developments and educational fol de rols.—(Louisville Post.)

Don't Suffer!

"I had been troubled, a little, for nearly 7 years," writes Mrs. L. Fincher, in a letter from Peavy, Ala., "but I was not taken down, until March, when I went to bed and had to have a doctor. He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, and I could not rest. At last, I tried Cardui, and soon I began to improve. Now I am in very good health, and able to do all my housework."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Entered at the Hartford post-office as mail matter of the second class.

It has been suggested that the g.
o. p. elephant will be Teddy's final gift to the Smithsonian Institute.

The voters of the country have taken Teddy's measure. They find that it is just as long as his Big Stick.

Strange, but nobody seems to have thought to mention Uncle Joe Cannon for permanent chairman of the Republican National Convention. Wouldn't he be great?

As the time draws near, it is quite evident that the chief of police of Chicago will have to call out the reserves at a certain political meeting set to occur in that city on the 18th.

There are some things in this life which must ever remain a deep and troublous mystery. One of these is just why a man's shirt always comes from the laundry with none only the middle bosom button fastened.

In that Cuba trouble, the Louisville Times suggests that Uncle Sam send over a few carloads of watermelons, which fruit is never known to fail to distract the attention of a darkey from anything else he may have in mind.

With its issue of last Friday the Calhoun Star rounded out twenty years of its existence and enters upon the year when it will soon "become of age." The Star is a newsy little sheet and well deserves the heartly support of every citizen of McLean county.

There is a noticeable absence of any appeal to the old soldier vote by either Roosevelt or Taft. These two doughty opponents seem to either think they do not need the old soldier's suffrage or are making enough war themselves for a whole regiment of vets.

The senior class of the Northwestern University at Chicago, composed of ten men and 113 girls, have taken a vote and decided that the "sanitary kiss" is too dry—not enough slobbers in it, so to speak.
The class decided in favor of the old-fashioned, cling-and-repeat way.

Col. Roosevelt says some certain accusations against him "can only be heeded by men with brains of about three-guinea-pig-power." And yet we know some men that use the elephant as their symbol of political sense who would believe almost anything bad about the Colonel.

The Louisville Times, after commenting favorably on the recent Democratic State Convention, says:
"The Democratic State Convention is behind us. The Baltimore Convention and the Presidential election are before us. Up and at 'em."
To which all loyal Kentucky Democrats answer: "Amen."

We can at least give Mr. Roosevelt credit for a greater insight into the rottenness and debauchery of the Republican mode of administration of national affairs than it was possible to conceive or than any Democrat could have possibly known. Coming at first hands from a man who evidently knows what he is talking about, the public is inclined to believe what Mr. Roosevelt says along this line.

The public drinking cup law enacted by the recent Kentucky Legislature appears in another column of The Herald to-day. It goes into effect next Wednesday, June 12. It will be rather troublesome to be complied with, and on this account, after awhile, it will probably become one of the "dead letter" laws of the State. However, the aim of the law—the preservation of health —is good, and it should be enforced
for humanity's sake.

Whether Senator-elect James was on the popular side or not in the recent contest for the chairmanship of the Democratic State Convention, let it be remembered that had he not come to Kentucky and used his best efforts and his strong personality in behalf of instructions for Champ Clark, it is doubtful if the latter would have gotten instructions without a contest. Mr. James did a noble work for Kentucky and Kentuckians, for which he deserves much credit.

Hoping of course that The Herald's readers have noticed it, yet we wish to call attention to the large amount of reading matter which has been contained in our columns of late weeks. We have tried to make this of every conceivable variety of possible interest to the average reader. We think we can say

In all truthfulness that few weekly papers in the State, issued altogether as a weekly, contain any more or as much carefully prepared reading stuff. We hope there is no subscriber who will say he is not getting his money's worth.

Who would have thought, only four short years ago, when William Howard Taft was nominated and elected at the behest of President Roosevelt, that this same Taft would at this time have become almost a political pariah—repudiated by the man who made him President and scorned by the leading members of his own party? Having foisted Taft, a confessed Presidential failure, upon us, Roosevelt now seeks to usurp his protegee's position, declaring it all a bad mistake. Is any of it really sane political proceedings?

The West Kentucky Orphan's Home, located at Hopkinsville, a new institution, seems to be accomplishing much good. Its first quarterly report issued April 1st, shows a work accomplished almost equal to any similar institution in the State, and at a total expense of only $750.32. It is kept up, we understand, by popular subscription and there are no salaried officials connected with it. All money received goes direct into the necessary expense of feeding, clothing, transporting and otherwise caring for the children. It is a worthy institution.

The Herald had no choice between Hon. Ollie James and Gov.
McCreary for temporary chairman of the State Convention. They are both very able men, both have been greatly honored by the party and the Democracy of neither can be doubted. We really thought it would have been better for the unity of the party had both been out of the race, leaving the contest to other good Democrats. But "all's well that ends well," and we do not believe that the decision of the chairmanship, matter left any sore spots with any Democrat, as Mr.
James took his defeat in a very manly way.

While the starving poor were suffering within easy reach if not at their doors, the fashionable members of New York's famous
"409," who would probably scorn to dine with so ordinary a person as a Congressman, took luncheon at the Hotel Vanderbilt the other day with nine cultured and highly intelligent Pekinese pups. The table was "resplendent with burnished silver and polished crystal and afame with jonquils." One of the dogs "daintily lapped up nourishment from a silver platter held by his escort, Mrs. Carl E. Ackley." How many sick children in hospitals and elsewhere in the city would have enjoyed the flowers and been aided to health by the nourishment!

TEDDY AND TAFT FIGHT DIRTY

Washington, D. C., June 1.—
A statesman is a successful politician who is dead. That is the definition of a statesman that was given by the late Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, who was one of the smartest men I ever knew in my life. Whilst that may be true in a general sense, I want to say that there are a few statesmen in the National Capital at this day who are not dead. I have talked not only with those statesmen, both Republicans and Democrats, but with politicians in Congress on both sides of the political fence and they all express the same opinion that this fight in the Republican party for the nomination for President between Taft and Roosevelt is the most pitiable, execrable and disgraceful exhibition that has ever been seen in American politics.
They all have come to the conclusion, regardless of party, that neither one of these men can be elected to the Presidency if he is nominated at Chicago.

There are a lot of Democrats in this country who affect to believe, whether they do or not, that Roosevelt would be absolutely invincible as the Republican candidate for President and that no Democrat could defeat him. Those men are merely superficial observers. They have not dug under the surface sufficiently far to find that in every Presidential primary less than 50 per cent of the Republican vote in that State has been polled for both him and Taft. What became of the other 50 per cent? They stayed at home, where they will continue to stay if Roosevelt should be nominated, but regardless of that fact there is another that is every significant. With what little political experience I have had, I made the assertion a few days ago when some Democrat said we could not defeat
Roosevelt, that there were two million patriotic Republicans in the United States who would refuse to support any man for a third term.
Almost as in corroboration of my statement, the next morning's papers announced in a telegram from St. Louis that Judge Rombauer had organized a Republican anti-third term club and that he had obtained the signatures of nearly one thousand and leading Republicans in St.
Louis the very first day he started out.

A lot of newspapers in this country, whose editorial writers know nothing of Missouri or Missouri politics, immediately laughed at the idea. Well, I happen to have lived in St. Louis a long time, and I know that Judge Rombauer is not only one of the ablest lawyers in St. Louis but one of the leading Republicans in the State of Missouri.
He is, perhaps, the strongest man intellectually in St. Louis in the Republican party. He announces that this is only a starter and that he will have over three million signers and members of his anti-third term club before he is through with it. Aside from that, the most influential and ablest German newspaper in the United States is the Westliche Post, which has announced that if Roosevelt is nominated, it will support the Democratic nominee. That means that one hundred thousand German Republicans in Illinois and Missouri will vote just as the Westliche Post tells them.

This whole campaign between Roosevelt and Taft has alienated hundreds of thousands of good Republicans from the Republican party because they believe that the crimination and recrimi-nation between Taft and Roosevelt has proved absolutely that the Republican party is rotten and absolutely unfit to administer the affairs of this Government in the interest of the people. They have not only concluded to stay at home in these primaries, but concluded to vote for a Democrat at the next election, provided that Democrat is a sure enough Democrat who inspires their confidence in his ability, his integrity, his manhood and his American patriotism.

A good many of us have stood on the cliffs that border the ocean and have seen the mighty waves lash themselves into fury and dash against the cliffs with mighty force.

It is an awe-inspiring spectacle, but we must remember that all terrestrial heights and depths are measured from the calm level of the sea and not from billows. Thus, it means that the verdict of the people is being made by the calm firesides of sensible citizens of this Nation and not in political meetings where they are being harangued and told everything in the interest of some one man. They have been thinking. That's why Champ Clark has been winning delegates while attending to his duties and others have been losing delegates by spending money for special trains and appealing to the people on the rostrum.

It looks from this distance like Champ Clark is going into the convention with more votes than any other candidate, and that he will be nominated before the third ballot is over.

RAISED ROUGH HOUSE —WARRANTS OF ARREST

Warrants were issued by Judge
R. R. Wedding yesterday on the affidavit of C. L. Wedding, charging Murray Crowe and Stout Lamb with assault and battery committed at Dundee last Saturday night.

Mr. Wedding is proprietor of a skating rink at Dundee and it is claimed that Murray Crowe, Stout Lamb and others were drinking and boisterous and when told by Wedding that they would have to behave themselves or be ejected from the premises, Murray Crowe and some of his pals became enraged and assaulted Wedding, beating him up badly.

As soon as released, Wedding went to his home and got his gun but when he returned, the disturbers of the peace had left the premises.

Mr. Wedding, who was in town yesterday, still carries evidences of the assault.

wedding was a quiet one, being witnessed only by the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.
At the conclusion of the ceremony,
Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a week's bridal trip to Eastern cities, after which they will go to housekeeping

WOMAN KILLS ALLEGED RIVAL ON RAILWAY CAR

Nashville, Tenn., May 31.—Mrs.
Jessie C. Barnes, of Caney Fork, shot and killed Mrs. W. W. Judd, of Double Springs, this afternoon at Buffalo Valley, as the result of attentions the dead woman is charged with having paid to Mrs. Barnes' husband.

The shooting took place on the platform of a passenger car in a train which arrived at Buffalo Valley from Nashville shortly after 6 o'clock this evening. Mrs. Judd had been to Nashville and was returning to her home at Double Springs, where she is proprietor of a hotel. Mrs. Barnes boarded the train a few miles before it reached Buffalo Valley. She walked to the car platform where her victim was standing and calmly fired three bullets into her body. Mrs. Barnes left the train with much composure and was arrested a short time later.

Her victim died instantly. Mr.
Barnes was in Nashville at the time of the shooting. Barnes was formerly a distiller and is a prominent landowner in Putnam county. He married Mrs. Barnes four years ago

THE LAW IN REGARD TO PUBLIC DRINKING CUP

Was Approved March 13, 1912, and Goes Into Effect June 12, 1912.

We have had several inquiries lately in regard to the public drinking cup law passed by the recent session of the Kentucky Legislature, and for the enlightenment of the public, we procured a copy of the Act, which is reproduced below. It was approved March 13, 1912, and will become a law and go into effect on June 12, 1912, ninety days after the adjournment of the Legislature. The law is as follows:

AN ACT prohibiting the use of public drinking cups.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

§ 1. The use of the common drinking cup on railroad trains, and in railroad stations, public hotels, boarding houses, restaurants, or steamboats, in stores, or other publicly frequented places in Kentucky, is hereby prohibited. No person or corporation in charge of the aforesaid places, and no person or corporation shall permit on said railroad train, in railroad stations, public hotels, boarding houses, restaurants, steamboats, stores, or any publicly frequented place in Kentucky, the use of the drinking cup in common. There must also be posted in a conspicuous place, by the individual or corporation, by the drinking water contained in any of the places mentioned in foregoing paragraphs, a warning card-board, with the above printed thereon in large letters, so they can be easily read. Any person or corporation violating the provisions of this act, shall, upon conviction, be fined in any sum not less than one dollar, and not more than ten dollars, and each day's violation of any of the provisions of this act shall be considered a separate offense, punishable by fine in the amount named above.

All laws inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

ROY L. BROWN MEETINGS TO BEGIN NEXT SUNDAY

A series of meetings will begin at the Christian Church in Hartford on next Sunday, June 9, it being the same appointment which was called off on account of the recent smallpox scare. The meeting will be conducted by Roy L. Brown, evangelist, assisted by D. E. Snyder, chorus leader, and R. Leighton Brown, Jr., cornetist. All the members of the company are trained workers. The passion for souls fires each one.

Evangelist Roy L. Brown.

Evangelist Roy L. Brown does not use manuscript or notes, but preaches straight from the shoulder the old Jerusalem message, with love and mighty power. He storms the bulwarks of sin, pleads with the sinner and wins back the prodigal. The backslider trembles, and the staunch old church member rejoices with renewed fervor and zeal.

Every meeting a success and every service tells for the future destiny of many souls.

A. S. of E. Notice.

The Ohio County Union of the A. S. of E. will convene at the court house in Hartford, June 28 and 29 instead of the first Friday and Saturday of July. All locals are earnestly requested to be fully represented. 234

RESIGNS PRESIDENCY MINE WORKERS' UNION

At a meeting of the District Board of District 23 U. M. W. of A., held in Central City Thursday, President R. M. Roll tendered his resignation and Vice President L. B. Walker was elected to succeed him. Ballots were sent out immediately by Secretary Vincent for an election on June 22d of a Vice President to succeed Mr. Walker. Nominations must be in by June 15th.

President Roll resigned to become General Manager of the People's Mine at Henderson, a position paying him a handsome salary. The miners will hear of his retirement with regret. President Walker has been Vice President for two terms and there is no more affable nor popular man anywhere. Therefore his promotion to the vacancy caused by the resignation of the former president will be hailed with pleasure by everyone. He took charge June 1st.

New Trial in Damage Case.

At the last February term of the Ohio Circuit Court, Wayne Lee, a young man of Sunnydale, recovered a verdict against the L. & N. R. Co. for $5,000 as compensation for personal injuries in a hand-car wreck near Dundee. Last week Judge Birkhead rendered an opinion giving the railroad company a new trial.

The amount was held not to be excessive, but the Court decided an error was made in the instructions given the jury.

Messrs. Glenn & Simmerman, attorneys for the railroad company, have reason to be proud of their victory. The case is set for trial here a second time on Thursday, June 13th. Hon. Ben D. Ringo, of Owensboro, is associated with local counsel as attorney for the plaintiff.

Must Settle With Uncle Sam.

U. S. Deputy Marshal C. T. Nichols, of Owensboro, came to Hartford last Saturday and took in charge Bill Duke, who had been apprehended by Town Marshal Stevens. Duke is wanted by Uncle Sam's authorities, who insist that he explain why he has been selling liquor, as alleged, without due permission from aid Uncle to do so. The offense to which he must answer is said to have been committed at Birk City, Ky. Duke has been living in a houseboat moored at the Hartford wharf for several weeks past. This is not the first nor the second time that Duke has been in conflict with the minions of the law.

Rev. Hartford in Hartford.

Rev. C. F. Hartford, who is engaged in church work at Allensville, Ky., but who is spending his vacation with his family here, preached at the court house Sunday night, filling the appointment of the Methodist pastor, Rev. T. V. Joiner. He preached a very forceful and touching sermon from the text of "laying up treasures in heaven," which was much enjoyed by the large audience present. Years ago Rev. Hartford preached his first sermon at Cromwell, this county, but Sunday night was the first time he ever preached in Hartford. He is one of the most efficient workers in the Lord's vineyard.

S. E. Duke Dead.

Mr. S. E. Duke died at his residence in Hartford last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock of a complication of diseases. After funeral services conducted by Rev. T. V. Joiner, his remains were interred in Oakwood cemetery Sunday at 10:30 o'clock.

The deceased was 54 years and one month old. His wife, Mrs. Mary A. Duke, to whom he was united in marriage in November, 1882, preceded him about two months. He leaves two sons, Ramey and Rethel Duke, and one daughter, Miss Gladys Duke, one brother, John A. Duke, and one sister, Mrs. J. T. Moore. The deceased had been a member of the Methodist church since December, 1900.

SUGGESTIONS FOR RAISING SWINE

Which Are Very Important to Farmers.

WE CANNOT AFFORD TO RAISE

Any But the Best Hogs—A Very Important Principle in Feeding.

TELLING TIME OF PIG'S LIFE

The swine industry in Kentucky deserves much more attention than it now receives. Not only should the number of animals produced annually be increased, but also the breeding and feeding should receive more careful attention.

To begin with, we cannot afford to raise any but the best hogs. By this we do not mean any particular breed, but we do mean that the animals should belong to some breed. A good grade is better than a poor animal of pure breeding, but the average pure bred is infinitely better than the average grade, to say nothing of the scrub. In two all-important particulars is the pure bred animal superior; first, more economical gains are secured for the feed consumed, and second, when the animal is ready for market it will demand the top price, whereas the scrub will probably sell 50 cents lower.

Some feeders advocate cross breeding of hogs, holding that the cross bred animals make better feeders. Even if we grant this to be true, the same feeder will admit that the second cross is very poor. Then in order to keep stocked with animals of the first cross, we must be continually dependent upon the pure breeders for fresh stock of the two breeds concerned, always paying fancy prices.

One of the best features of any kind of stock farming is that it stimulates other farm activities. The feed should nearly all be produced on the farm. One important principle in feeding will be mentioned here. The young, growing animal requires a ration much different from that of the mature animal. The most important period of a pig's life is the time between weaning and his attaining 140 pounds weight. The growing animal requires much protein and ash to produce muscle and bone respectively, the purpose being to grow a frame upon which subsequently to lay a pad of fat. To meet the requirements of growth, suitable food must be provided. The cheapest gains can no doubt be made by providing alfalfa or clover pasture and giving a supplementary corn ration. In this case the alfalfa provides the greatest part of the protein and ash. The profitable feeding of pigs in winter is somewhat more difficult than in summer. In the winter season, in this latitude, the lack of alfalfa pasture can be largely atoned for by young rye. This should be sown heavily, about four bushels per acre, drilling both ways.

Skim milk is one of the best known supplements for corn, in feeding young swine, and we will do ourselves no harm by making an effort to produce more skim milk, for the dairy industry is highly profitable. Soy beans and corn, in the proportion of about one to six, make an excellent ration for young pigs, and the soy beans should by all means be grown on the home farm, for we thereby serve the double purpose of improving the soil by growing the legume and we provide one of the best possible pig feeds. High grade digester tankage one part, and corn nine parts, is a good ration. For finishing the mature animal, probably corn alone is best for all practical purposes.

By proper breeding and feeding we can obtain rapid gains and early maturity, thereby lessening cost of gains and danger from disease.

To "Break" Setting Hens.
Most of the methods of "breaking up" hens from setting are cruel, and tire the innocent hens who are not to be blamed for their instinct. The kindest way is the following:

When it is necessary to stop the inclination, place the hen in a nice clean pen with fresh grass and all the meat cut fine she will eat. The meat immediately increases the egg nourishment, and while the hen is having a really good time, she is fast preparing herself to commence laying eggs. It will take but two or three days before she forgets all about setting, having other affairs to attend to.

A FARMER'S RESOLUTION.

I shall give my land and stock a square deal.

I shall not impose upon my wife the work I can do myself.

I shall neither sell what I need nor buy what I do not need.

I shall be a farmer, a full-rounded farmer, and even more than a farmer.

I shall make the hens lay and cows give milk and the hogs grow fat, or know the reason why.

I shall neither spend money foolishly nor foolishly hoard it up.

I shall aim to make a good crop, a good husband, a good father and a good neighbor.

I shall not detain the children on the farm when they ought to be in school.

I shall ignore all schemes that promise quick riches. If I must come to poverty, I'll come to it honestly.

I shall learn enough about agriculture to be entitled to the name and success of a scientific farmer.

I shall get the habit of rising early, but not so early that the neighbors will talk about it.

I shall be sane in all my endeavors and sanitary in all my surroundings.

I shall attend farmers' institutes and other gatherings that aim to help the farmer.

I shall renew my subscriptions to my home and farm papers promptly and go through them carefully and studiously before the next numbers arrive.

I shall go to church on Sundays, even if I have to walk alone.—[By William J. Burtscher in Farm and Home.]

THE LAUGHING STOCK OF EUROPE, IS ROOSEVELT

"Americans in England and Europe are subjected to constant ridicule in the clubs and hotels because of the prize ring politics of this country," said Francis Peabody, who returned to-day from a six-months stay in Europe.

"I am a warm personal friend of Mr. Roosevelt myself," he said, "but nevertheless I believe he is the greatest demagogue this country has ever seen. Rooseveltism is a disease in some parts of this country, and the people should rise up and stamp it out as they would any other pestilence."

"He is the greatest boss in history. The prize ring politics in the present campaign for which he is responsible has made America the laughing stock of Europe."—[Boston Cor. New York Sun.]

Helped to Keep Down Expenses.

Mrs. J. E. Henry, Akron, Mich., tells how she did so: "I was bothered with my kidneys and had to go nearly double. I tried a sample of Foley Kidney Pills and they did me so much good that I bought a bottle, and they saved me a doctor's bill." For weak back, backache, rheumatism, urinary and kidney troubles, use Foley Kidney Pills. They help quickly. For sale by all dealers.

Set Hens in His Coffin.

When Edward D. Pomeroy was buried to-day in the little mountain town of Buckland in a coffin that he made with his own hands, a strange plea made by the old man to a doctor to save his life for two weeks, came to light.

"Can't you keep me alive two weeks?" asked the ill man anxiously.

"Why do you want to live just two weeks?" asked the doctor.

"Well, you see," he replied, "I have six hens setting in that coffin and I'd rather not disturb them until they've hatched."

But Pomeroy died yesterday and new nests were found for the hens.—[North Adams, Mass., Telegram to the New York Press.]

HERALD READER TALKS ON BUSINESS AND POLITICS

Crops Fine in Oklahoma—Thinks Bryan Should Be Nominated Again.

Anadarko, Ok., May 23, 1912.

Editors Hartford Herald, Hartford, Ky., Gentlemen:—You will find enclosed $1.00. Please set our paper up to May 20, 1913. The Herald is a very welcome visitor to us every week. While we have many dear friends in our old home State who write us often, The Herald gives us much news that we would not get otherwise. In reading The Herald we find that one by one our old friends are crossing over to the great beyond. How fast they go! We are made to exclaim "Who next?"

Oklahoma has had three very poor crop years in succession, but the prospect now is for the largest crop of everything in the history of this country. The farmers now are harvesting the first cutting of alfalfa. They say it is immense. They are expecting three more cuttings this year. Don't you think that is going some?

Well, boys, we are getting to be counted along with the old men of the United States, and I do not believe that you or I can remember when the United States had a President—I mean a President in the true sense of the term. It does seem to me that any man who would vote for either Bill or Ted is hard up for a vote. This is the God-given opportunity of the Democratic party. Let Bill and Ted curse each other—who cares? Let us keep on "sawing wood." Let us give the would-be bosses, the drunkards and the grafters, who are trying to control portions of the Democratic party, a back seat, where they should have been long ago. Why not nominate a man who stands head and shoulders above any Republican in this nation—the peerless leader of democracy, the one man who can carry the election over any Republican and over all of the Republican corruptionists? That man is W. J. Bryan. Then in the language of the late Sam Jones, we can stop for awhile singing the old song, "Sweet By and By," and can sing for at least eight long years, in the midst of the greatest prosperity, that precious old song, "Sweet Now and Now." Hoping to see old Kentucky leave out the crooks and the two-by-fours, I am yours for Bryan for President.

Not Like the West.

Apropos of flat life in New York, Senator Smith said the other day in Grand Rapids:

"I have a friend from the roomy West who moved to the metropolis recently. Meeting him on Broadway, I inquired:

"Well, have you furnished your new flat yet?"

"No," he answered; "no, not quite. By the way, Senator, can you tell me where I could buy a folding toothbrush?"

Mrs. Lela Love, wife of Wiley Love, a farmer living near Covena,

I cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers from kidney troubles." Foley Kidney Pills are as carefully made and as scientifically compounded as any medicine your home doctor can give you. They act directly on the kidneys and bladder. For sale by all dealers, everywhere.

A FISHERMAN'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Dundee, Ky., May 30.—Mr. Jas. M. Harrison, station agent L. & N. R. Co., at this place and devoted church members, tells of the following miraculous escape from the jaws of death:

While out fishing last night, after having purchased a small quantity of magic fish lure from the Hon. S. J. Weller, banker at this place, he had gone only a short distance down the river when the whole stream became suddenly alive with fish, attracted by the magic fish lure. Before he had time to realize his danger, more than a score of fish, weighing from 34 to 87 pounds, were already in his boat. Realizing his danger, he attempted to throw the fish lure out of the boat, but in his excitement, he upset the boat, spilling the fish lure on his feet. When he had swam almost to shore, he felt something tugging at his feet and in a moment he was pulled beneath the waves and almost drowned. But as luck is always with a fisherman, his shoe strings gave way under the strain and he once again looked upon the beautiful banks of the most noted fish stream in the world.

The people of the town by this time being alarmed by the splashing of the water, rushed to his rescue. Mr. Harrison was able to sit up this morning, but was very nervous and talked of fish and sea animals in his sleep all night.

He seemed to think he was Jonah and had been called to preach, but instead, had been riding a jack and fishing all day for exercise.

When asked by a friend to-day, he said he guessed he would not go any more for a few days, although he is none the worse off for his experience, except the loss of a pair of shoes and a severe nervous shock.

INSTEAD.

When I am dead, forget me, dear,
For I shall never know,
Though o'er my cold and lifeless form
Your burning tears should flow.

I'll cancel with my living voice
The debt you'll owe the dead—
Give me the love you'd show me
then,

But give it now instead.

And bring no wreaths to deck my grave,
For I shall never care,
Though all the flowers I loved the most
Should grow and wither there.

I'll sell my chance of all the flowers
You'll lavish when I'm dead,
For one small bunch of violets
now—

So give me that instead.

What saints we are when we are dead!
But what's the use for me
Of praises written on a tomb
For other eyes to see?

One simple little word of praise
By lips we worship, said
Is worth a hundred epigrams—
Dear, say it now instead.

And faults that now are hard to bear,
Oblivion then shall win.
Our sins are soon forgiven us
When we no more can sin.

But any bitter thought of me—
Keep it till I am dead;
I shall not know; I shall not care;
Forgive me now instead.

KENTUCKIANS SEEM NEVER TOO OLD TO WED

Winchester, Ky., May 24.—The marriage here Wednesday of Mrs. Sallie Sudduth, widow of the late Will Sudduth, to Mr. James Clark, of Clay City, is considered to have broken all records so far as the age of the contracting parties is concerned.

Both the bride and bridegroom were born during the last year of President Jackson's administration, more than twenty-five years before the commencement of the Civil War.

This is the second marriage for both parties, and upon leaving for a honeymoon trip, the bridegroom remarked that he had taken such a trip some forty years ago.

Statements That May Be Investigated—The Testimony of Hartford Citizens.

When a Hartford citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far-away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Hartford resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

S. L. King, Hartford, Ky., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a good remedy for kidney complaint, as they have benefited me whenever I have had occasion to take them. I had pains across my back and finally I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. Their use as directed helped me. I can recommend this remedy highly to anyone in need of a medicine for disordered kidneys."

GOOD PENMANSHIP WON HER COWBOY HUSBAND

Romance Which Started on Wall of a Grain Car Ended Happily.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—Just because she's a better penman than most other girls, Mrs. Robert C. Wallin, until very recently Miss Marie Sleeth, of Malott Park, near Indianapolis, now claims a breezy, handsome Western cowboy for a husband. This is the story of how it happened:

Last year, in a spirit of girlish fun, Miss Sleeth wrote her name on the wall of a grain car at Morris-town. Other girls did likewise. In due course the car reached Oklahoma, and came within the vision of Robert C. Wallin, a lorn and lonely cowboy.

Then it was that the tiresome hours spent by Miss Sleeth over her childish copy book were rewarded. Mr. Wallin saw the other names that were scribbled on the wood, but the beautiful writing of Miss Sleeth captivated him completely. That night he had dreams of a vision of loveliness at Malott Park, Indiana.

A few days later there came to Miss Sleeth a letter bearing the postmark of Muskogee, Okla. Opening it with expectancy, she learned that there was a lorn and lonely cowboy in Oklahoma who wished to know more about her.

Thus the romance began. Miss Sleeth answered the cowboy's letter, and thereafter, for a year, finally Mr. Wallin, tiring of the monotony of the plains and feeling that a change to Indiana would do him good, obtained from his employer a leave of absence.

A few days later he turned up at Malott Park, Ind. Miss Sleeth introduced him to her father, with some shy remark about a contemplated wedding. The father was enraged and amazed. He said he wouldn't consent to a wedding. Nothing daunted, the lovers proposed a period of probation, and at the end of two weeks a wedding ceremony took place in Indianapolis.

The young couple are very happy. They will leave soon for Oklahoma, which will be their future home.

Meanwhile, the other young women of Malott Park who scribbled their names so carelessly on the car, and who like the looks of the Western cowboy, are working overtime with lessons in penmanship.

HERBINE

Is a Powerful Chills Tonic and Liver Regulator.

It puts the liver in healthy, vigorous condition and cures the chills by destroying the disease germs which infest the system. Herbine is a fine antiperiodic medicine, more effective than the syrupy mixtures that sicken the stomach; because it not only kills the disease germs, but acts effectively in the liver, stomach and bowels, thus putting the system in condition to successfully resist the usual third or seventh day return of the chill. WOMAN AIDS A BURGLAR TO LOOT HER OWN HOUSE

Robs. Husband and Children
Herself to Avoid Trouble
In Home.

Chicago, May 31.—With an armed burglar crouched in her room, ready to kill her should she turn traitor, Mrs. John C. Kuhns acted as the criminal's accomplice, robbing her sleeping husband and children and then calmly helped him to leave.

When he had crawled out of a window and escaped, she faintly. When she came to, she ran hysterically into her husband's room and told him of the robbery. Mrs. Kuhns, who is the wife of a purchasing agent of the Illinois Central railroad, was awakened at 2 o'clock in the morning by a noise in her room. In the dim light she saw a man standing at the dresser. He carried an electric pocket lamp. Hearing her move slightly in the bed, he turned and directed his rays in her face and pointed his revolver at her head.

"Don't scream or I'll kill you," he said.

Mrs. Kuhns, thoroughly frightened, controlled her desire to scream for her husband, who was asleep in an adjoining room.

"Be quiet," she finally said, fearing that the burglar might kill both her and her husband. "My husband and two children are asleep in the adjoining rooms. Please don't go in there. I don't want anything to happen."

The burglar, after he had finished ransacking the dresser, started for the rooms. Mrs. Kuhns hopped out of bed and pleaded with him not to go into the bedrooms.

"I'll go in and get what you want," she pleaded.

The burglar consented and Mrs. Kuhns tip-toed into her husband's room. She returned carrying his trousers and two small savings banks belonging to the children. The burglar searched both of them, extracting the money.

"I guess this is all I want. How can I get out?" the burglar asked her.

Mrs. Kuhns pointed to a front door. The man stealthily walked to it and then disappeared.

"The burglar kept his word, even if he did rob us," Mrs. Kuhns said. "I was afraid that if he went into the bedroom of my husband and he awakened, he might kill Mr. Kuhns and myself."

"Just before he left he asked me if I intended to scream while he was in the house. I told him I would not, and he seemed satisfied. It was a terrible strain, but the burglar kept his word, and I'm happy that it didn't turn out any worse than it did. It seems awfully funny since it is all over to have helped rob one's own husband and her children and then help a robber to escape."

Man Coughs and Breaks Ribs.

After a frightful coughing spell a man in Neenah, Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. It's guaranteed to satisfy, and you can get a free trial bottle or 50-cent or $1 sizes at James H. Williams.

STEPPED ON RUSTY NAIL AND DIED OF LOCKJAW

James K. Laffoon, one of the most prosperous and influential farmers of the Noreek vicinity, died of lockjaw, resulting from a wound inflicted by a rusty nail two weeks before, Tuesday of last week. Mr. Laffoon, at the time of the accident, gave no heed to the small opening which was caused when he accidentally stepped on a rusty nail, but about a week later his foot swelled very rapidly, and lockjaw set in. For the last several days he suffered intense pain.

The deceased was forty-six years of age, and is survived by his widow and seven children. Four brothers also survive. Mr. Laffoon had many friends in Ohio and Daviess counties who are grieved to hear of his death.

WHALE MEAT UTILIZED IN SATISFACTORY WAY

Delicacies made from the flesh of whales are being put on the market by enterprising Newfoundland whalers. Among them are sausages, meat extract, canned steaks and tongue. They are also seeking to utilize the intestines of the leviathans as substitutes for leather in various arts and industries. It is claimed that the flesh of the whale looks and tastes much like beef, and can be sold for one cent a pound. The company preparing the meat for market has sold several lots in the West Indies with satisfactory results. The average whale hide contains nearly 1,500 square feet. The intestines are tough, and are described as suitable for glove manufacturing.—[Dundee Advertiser.]

MAN NEAR LEITCHFIELD KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Also Destroyed Barn at Somerset and Caused Fatal Dynamite Explosion.

Leitchfield, Ky., May 30.—Erda Haycroft, of this city, was struck by lightning and killed instantly this afternoon, a half mile out of town. He had been working on a house and had climbed down when the rain came up and he crouched in a corner of an uncovered building to shelter. Mr. Haycroft was about 23 years old and had a family.

Bowling Green, Ky., May 30.—During the electrical storm late this afternoon lightning prematurely exploded a dynamite blast at the Bowling Green White Stone quarry, which may result fatally to W. D. Floyd, crusher foreman. Mr. Floyd had just finished preparing the blast when the lightning struck the connecting wires, causing a terrific explosion. He was on a high bluff and fell with the crushed rock some distance below. He was brought to his home in this city in an automobile. Physicians found that bones in his left hand were broken as well as bones in his right leg below the knee. A deep gash was cut in his right side.

Somerset, Ky., May 30.—The large stock barn belonging to W. L. Cowan, a farmer of this county, was struck by lightning yesterday and destroyed by the flames which followed. Mr. Cowan succeeded in getting out all the stock, but lost some farming implements and several hundred bushels of feed. This is the second barn Mr. Cowan has had to burn in this manner within the last seven months. He had no insurance.

KENTUCKY WOOL POOL SOLD IN LOUISVILLE

To Simon Dinkelspiel at a Satisfactory Price—Output of A. S. of E.

Louisville, Ky., May 31.—For a consideration not made public, the 1912 wool pool of the Kentucky Wool Growers' Association, a branch of the American Society of Equity, was sold to Simon Dinkelspiel, of Louisville, after sealed bids had been opened by members of the sales committee, in secret session at the Willard Hotel.

The sale involved the wool output for 1912 of sixteen counties in Kentucky, in which the growers pooled their wool with the Kentucky Wool Growers' Association. Their total output, it is said, will be between 100,000 and 150,000 pounds. It was declared following last night's meeting that the terms of the sale would be made public upon the delivery of the wool to Mr. Dinkelspiel.

Those present at the meeting last night, besides Mr. Dinkelspiel, the buyer of the wool, were as follows: Ben Watson, of Dixon, chairman; Louis Hancock, of Providence; Silas Stevens, of Beaver Dam; J. F. Doss, of Greenville, and W. E. Bibb, of Calhoun.

Mr. Dinkelspiel was the only bidder for the wool who was present. His bid, according to the members of the sales committee, was most satisfactory, and therefore was accepted. The price paid by him is said to be a shade better than that for which the 1911 pool was sold.

Great Weekly at a Low Price. The Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer, a twelve-page paper recently transformed into the size and appearance of a daily, will be furnished in connection with the Hartford Herald at only $1.35 for the two papers. This price stands good on renewals for The Herald. The Weekly Enquirer is an ideal newspaper, containing a big variety of reading and is especially suited to the farming classes. It is Democratic and progressive. This is certainly a low price for a lot of good reading.

BEST COUNTRY IN WORLD —PRIVILEGE OF VOTING

In these days of political unrest and fault-finding with existing conditions, it is refreshing to read a word of sane advice from one of the brainiest Americans—Richard Olney, Grover Cleveland's Attorney-General and Secretary of State.

In his remarks at the closing exercises of the Franklin Union, a short time ago, Mr. Olney said:

"America has been famed the world over as God's own country—as a land of equal opportunity, of even-handed justice, of the amplest liberty of thought and action and conscience—where birth was nothing and merit everything—and where any man might hope to receive any reward justified by his deserts. If that state of things is to be preserved, or restored; if the wage-earners of this generation want it for themselves or their children after them, they must not be content with the special education needed in this or that special trade.

"They must not sink the citizen in the craftsman. They must realize that to neglect their public duties is to neglect their private interests as well, and that however desirable to the mastery of a trade, it is indispensable to its satisfactory enjoyment, that their rights and powers as citizens and voters be exercised with intelligence and wisdom."

A committee of Titanic survivors presented a loving cup to Capt. A. H. Reston, of the rescue ship Carpathia, on the vessel's arrival in New York harbor.

CLARK GETS STATES OF ARIZONA AND MONTANA

Tucson, Ariz., May 29.—Returns at midnight from the Arizona Presidential primaries held to-day indicate that Champ Clark has defeated Woodrow Wilson for the Democratic Presidential nomination by a majority of about four to one, and that the State delegation of eight votes will be given him.

Montana Also.

Butte, Mont., May 29.—The Montana Democrats, in State convention, selected eight delegates to Baltimore, instructing them for Champ Clark.

Contested Delegation.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—One convention elected twelve delegates and instructed them for Clark to-day. The bolters elected twelve which go uninstructed. In each case the delegates have a half vote each.

GOSSIP.

Gossip is a humming bird with eagle wings and a voice like a fog horn. It can be heard from Dan to Beersheba, and has caused more trouble than all the ticks, fleas, mosquitos, coyotes, grasshoppers, chinch bugs, rattlesnakes, sharks, cyclones, earthquakes, blizzards, smallpox, yellow fever, gout and indigestion that all this United States has known or will know when the universe shuts up and begins the final invoice. In other words, it has got war and hell both packed up in a corner and yelling for ice water.—[Saline County (Mo.) Citizen.]

Tit For Tat.

"The late John Arbuckle, Coffee King Arbuckle," said a coffee broker, "was very charitable, but he administered his charity with rare delicacy."

"Coffee King Arbuckle used to assert that the poor were as sensitive as the rich, and he would illustrate this assertion with an apt anecdote."

"One of his anecdotes was about a rich lady who, while calling on a poor woman in the slums, said: 'Does your husband drink?'

"No'm," said the slum woman quietly. 'Does yours?'

Or the wrapper around your Herald. You will find a little yellow slip. It has printed on it your name and a date after it. The date shows when your subscription expires or when it did expire. This is all the book we keep of your subscription account, and there is no excuse for you not knowing just how you stand with THE HERALD. We are trying to get our subscription list on a strictly cash-in-advance basis, so as to avoid trouble and misunderstanding. We do not want to force the paper upon anybody against their will, but we want all that is due us. Please give this matter your very prompt attention. Look at that little yellow slip containing your name. It will tell you just what you need to know, without any explanation from us. If it is wrong in any way, let us know. Anyhow, please pay us what is due. It takes much money to run a good newspaper nowadays, hence we must keep our subscription accounts collected up. Either come to The Herald office and pay the arrears and a year in advance, or, if you are not coming to town soon, send us a check or post-office money-order for the amount due. PIONEER BIRDMAN TAKES HIS FLIGHT TO ETERNITY

Died of Typhoid Fever After Long Illness—Dream Became Reality.

Dayton, O., May 30.—Following a sinking spell that developed soon after midnight, Wilbur Wright, the noted birdman, died of typhoid fever at 3:15 this morning. Wright had been lingering on the border for many days, and though his condition from time to time gave some hopes to members of his family, the attending physicians, Drs. D. B. Conklin and Levi Spitzer, maintained throughout the latter part of his sickness that he could not recover.

When the noted patient succumbed to the burning fever that had been racking his body for days and night, he was surrounded by the members of his family, which included his aged father, Bishop Milton Wright; Miss Catherine Wright; Orville, the co-inventor of the aeroplane; Reuchlin Wright and Lorin Wright. All of the family reside in this city except Reuchlin, who lives in Kansas.

A narrative of Wilbur Wright's career is the story of a man who followed the light of his dreams and contrived a machine for aerial navigation that stands out spectacularly among the wonders of a century of invention.

Wilbur Wright, with his brother Orville, dreamed of building a craft that would dart through the air with the speed of a hawk, that would defy the storm, that would transform the art of warfare and revolutionize methods of transportation. In the nine years that followed their first successful test at Kitty Hawk, N. C., they have seen their aeroplanes driven more than two miles straight into space, have heard the whirr of their machines on their way across the continent, and have watched great crowds stand aghast in anticipation as a graceful biplane soared threateningly over the fighting mast of a giant warship which might have been sent careening to destruction by a bomb from the tiny machine buzzing aloft.

When death smote Wilbur, he and his brother still were dreaming of greater achievements, their chief interest being centered in the making of a machine that would possess great stability and increased carrying power.

SIMMONS.

June 3.—Sunday, June 2, was Decoration Day at McHenry. The Woodmen of the World and the Odd Fellows joined hands in one of the most beautiful decoration services that ever took place in this county. Both lodges met at the hall at 2 o'clock and after a few minutes drill they formed in line and marched to the cemetery. Many beautiful wreaths and bouquets were strewn on the graves of the deceased brothers. Then they marched back to the hall and disbanded. The Rockport and Centertown bands furnished music for the occasion. Among the Woodmen who attended from this place were: John Stevens, J. W. Hodges, Will Elder, V. H. Leisure, J. L. Malden, Dan Southard, J. A. Sweeney, Owen McConnell, J. E. McConnell, G. C. Keown, J. D. Hill and Guy Ranney. Mr. J. R. Norman, of Select, visited here Sunday night.

Mrs. C. E. Bodey, formerly of Chicago, but now of Beloit, Wis., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Guy Ranney.

Mrs. Harrison Crowe returned home Sunday after a long visit to relatives at Select.

Born to the wife of Mrs. Dave Herrel, on the 1st, a boy.

HEYBURN'S REPEALER—BENEFIT PAPER TRUST

Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, has made three separate attempts recently to have the Canadian Reciprocity act repealed. Inasmuch as this act was not accepted by Canada, there is no earthly use of repealing it. But Heyburn has a reason.

Along with the Reciprocity act Congress passed an act to remove the duty of Canadian wood pulp. This became effective with the passage of the Reciprocity act, and did not require the concurrence of Canada. To repeal the whole act would also repeal this provision, hence the paper trust is extremely anxious to have the Reciprocity act repealed. Newspapers have, from time to time, fully demonstrated Heyburn's uselessness. Hence he is anxious to "get even." At least that is the charitable explanation of his activity.

Thistle Cottage Dedicated.

Tuesday evening, May 28, the nearest relatives, official staff, pastors, physicians and two or three most intimate friends and neighbors met with W. G. Duncan and wife, of Greenville, Ky., to be present at the dedicatory services of their lovely home, Thistle Cottage. Unrestricted artistic taste combined with skilled architecture and workmanship has made of this an ideal cottage, and the united wish of all the guests was that happiness, health and long life should be given the genial host and hostess to enjoy their beautiful surroundings. Growing plants and cut flowers supplied nature's touch of beauty.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Swallow, of Alabama, son-in-law of the host, and Dr. Henderson, of Greenville. Dr. Lyons, of Louisville, in a few appropriate remarks, dedicated this as a Godly home, one where Christ dwells as an honored guest.

Scotch music was one of the features of the evening, while amid plants and flowers on the beautiful wide veranda, punch was served. The ices and cakes surmounted by the Scotch thistle in its native colors were pleasing to eye as well as taste.

Out-of-town guests were: Dr. J. S. Lyons, Louisville; Mrs. Green Russell, Hopkinsville; Rev. and Mrs. I. S. Swallow, Bessemer, Ala.; Mrs. E. M. D. Boone and Mrs. Herrick Johnson, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Felix, Hartford.

Mr. J. W. Camden and wife (nee Miss Parkie Gregory) of Jacksonville, Fla., are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Pendleton, city.

HOPEWELL.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Shull spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Taylor, of Taylortown.

Miss Carrie Shull, who has been very sick, is improving.

Esq. Miles was in Hartford last week on business for the county.

Mrs. Albin Shull and daughter, Miss Lovil, are on the sick list.

Mrs. Nat Huckleberry, of Paradise, fell from the door of her house, a distance of 5 or 6 feet, last Friday. She is in a critical condition, being injured internally.

HORTON.

June 3.—The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Berda Hammons Monday, leaving an 8-pound boy.

Mr. L. T. Wright has moved his sawmill to this place and will have it in operation soon.

The party at Mr. J. B. Combs' was largely attended and all present enjoyed a nice time.

Miss Lizzie Miller, of Olaton, has been visiting relatives in this section, returning home Monday.

Jasper Peters Dead.

Jasper Peters, of near Olaton, this county, died very suddenly of heart trouble last Friday. He was sitting in his chair apparently as well as usual when, without any warning, he fell from his chair and expired at once.

After funeral services conducted by Rev. Joseph Acton, his remains were interred in the Acton graveyard Saturday. He leaves a widow and one child, Mrs. Ed Burkley.

MEXICAN REBELS MINUS MONEY OR AMMUNITION

Now Confronted by the Most Critical Situation Of the Revolution.

Chihuahua, Mexico, June 3.—Devoid of money and ammunition, the Mexican rebels in Northern Mexico are confronted by the most critical situation for them since the revolution began. If the rebel chiefs can delay the expected battle at Bachimba, they may be able to concentrate enough strength to deal a formidable blow to the Government. Failing, however, to get money and arms, the Liberal chiefs fear disaffection among the men and disorganization.

The money situation is by far the most serious, and foreign residents have fled, taking large sums with them. Only about thirty Americans remain here and hardly any women or children.

The rebels have resorted to desperate means to obtain money, and this, more than the fear of an expected attack from Gens. Villa and Rabago, has caused the exodus from here. To-day the rebels took $5,000 worth of clothing from a dry goods store here. From another store $25,000 worth of supplies were taken.

Saloons and gambling houses have been closed, as in the last two days more than 4,000 rebel troops have been in Chihuahua receiving their pay.

No Dickering With Orozco.

Washington, June 3.—Friends of President Madero, received to-day a telegram from the President's secretary, J. Sanchez Azcona, at Mexico City, denying that the Madero administration was dealing in any way with Gen. Orozco for terms.

"Please deny in the most emphatic manner," read the Azcona message, "rumors circulated in the United States that President Madero has directly or indirectly treated in any manner with Orozco or the revolutionists for peace on any terms. Orozco is lost, and the Government of Madero will never treat with him."

SENTENCES WOMAN FOR BEATING HER HUSBAND

Binghamton, N. Y., June 3.—Mrs. Mary Dubal, of this city, is believed to be the first suffragist in the United States to be given a penitentiary sentence for husband-beating. She was arrested on a warrant obtained by Mr. Dubal, who complained that in a fit of rage she gave him a sound beating. City Judge Albert Hotchkiss found her guilty, and declared that if women desired men's prerogatives, they should also have men's punishment when found guilty of violation of law. He always dealt severely with wife-beaters, he said, and accordingly he sentenced her to three months in the penitentiary.

They Put an End to It.

Charles Sable, 30 Cook St., Rochester, N. Y., says he recommended Foley Kidney Pills at every opportunity because they gave him prompt relief from a bad case of kidney trouble that had long bothered him. Such a recommendation, coming from Mr. Sable, is direct and convincing evidence of the great curative qualities of Foley Kidney Pills. The genuine Foley Kidney Pills are never sold in bulk, but put up in sealed bottles, enclosed in a yellow carton. Ask for Foley Kidney Pills. Refuse substitutes. For sale by all dealers.

GREEN BRIER.

June 3.—Owing to the lateness of spring and the continued rains, farmers in this community are greatly behind with their work. There is still much corn to be planted and tobacco to be set.

Rev. Birch Shields filled his regular appointment at our schoolhouse last night, preaching an interesting and instructive sermon to a very large audience.

Rev. Tow, of Rochester, preached for us two weeks ago, delivering a most excellent sermon.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Chinn on the 27th and left them a baby boy. Mother and child doing well and Tom seems to be three inches taller.

On Sunday the 2d the noble bird also visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Roach, bringing to them a boy.

A protracted meeting will begin at our schoolhouse on Monday night after the fourth Sunday in June, to be conducted by Revs. Shields and Tow.

Decoration of graves will be observed at East Providence graveyard on Saturday evening, June 8th. The exercises will be in charge of Uncle Joe Coleman. Everybody invited to come and participate in honoring the memory of departed friends.

Mr. Solon Chinn, of Independence, spent Sunday evening in this community mixing with his friends.

Mr. Alvin Chinn, who is working in the Co-Operative store at New Render, attended church here Sunday night.

The writer had the pleasure last week of attending for the first time a State Convention. Needless to say, we enjoyed it all to the fullest extent and came home more fully convinced than ever of the nomination and election of the Hon. Champ Clark as President of the United States. Time, space and the patience of your readers all forbid mentioning all of the many interesting incidents and events of that great gathering, but one of the most inspiring was after the vote had been taken that selected Gov. McCreary as temporary chairman of the convention. The committee appointed for that purpose had escorted him to the stage, it was the hand of Kentucky's big, brainy United States Senator Ollie James who was among the first to congratulate him, assist him to mount the rostrum and as they stood side by side, with ten thousand and more eyes centered upon them, the band struck up the familiar notes of "My Old Kentucky Home." The effect was instantaneous and seemingly electrical. Hundreds of hats, handkerchiefs and umbrellas went up in the air and the vast hall almost trembled with the shouts from the throats of thousands of enthusiastic, determined, hopeful Democrats, presenting a sight never to be forgotten and presaging a Clark victory at Baltimore in June and a still greater victory at the polls in November. We were pleased to note that among the many leading Democrats from all parts of the State who took an active, prominent part in the convention, there was no one of more influence or whose advice and counsel carried more weight than Ohio county's own honored son, the Hon. G. B. Likens.

SHREVE.

June 3.—Mrs. John Smith and little son Oliver, of Owensboro, visited Mrs. T. E. Butler and family from Saturday to Monday. Mrs. Smith will leave in a short time for Monet, Mo., to make her future home, where her husband has a position with a railroad company.

Rev. F. M. Winfrey preached at the schoolhouse at this place Sunday.

Rev. Russell Walker, who has been attending the Southern Baptist University at Fort Worth, Tex., for the past eight months, has returned home to spend his vacation. He preached at Pleasant Grove Sunday afternoon.

Dennis Walker, of Fordsville, visited his father, C. H. Walker, Saturday and Sunday.

The surprise birthday dinner given to Mrs. J. N. Shreve Sunday was largely attended.

Miss Mae Whittinghill, of Trisler, visited Miss Eva Butler Sunday.

Mr. Allen Moxley and Miss Maude Blair, of Trisler neighborhood, were married last Wednesday by Rev. Velas Matthews.

PERSONAL ASSESSMENT OF PRESIDENT TAFT

President Taft has been thrifty during the past year. The assessment of his personal property made by the assessor in Cincinnati shows an aggregate value of $74,950.

This includes a horse valued at $1,000, a $100 watch, a $1,000 piano, $5,650 cash in the bank and $68,000 other personal property and investments. One year ago his assessment return was only $45,000, indicating that the President has learned habits of thrift and is making efforts to lay up a few dollars for the rainy day.

His salary is $75,000 per annum. He has drawn pay at this rate for three years and seems to have saved part of it. But he is not likely to add to his bank account this year on account of his increased "high cost of living."

BEAVER DAM.

June 3.—Our town is soon to have a new flour mill. We understand that the Equity people are behind the enterprise and as soon as the lot to build on is located the work will begin. Whether or not our town needs two flour mills, is a question, but the people who are behind the enterprise will soon have things going, as they have already bought the brick for the foundation.

Last week was a busy time with the farmers. Our streets were almost deserted. Most of the corn crop is planted and the outlook now is for a full crop yet to be planted.

Mr. Ira Plummer, who completed his education a few years ago, and started West in search of a better country, located in Brigelow, Ark. After two years in business at that point, he decided he could see better things back at his old Kentucky home and has returned and accepted a position as salesman with Mr. Sam Gentry, of our town.

Misses Effie Taylor, of Union neighborhood, and Ollie Taylor, of Beaver Dam, are visiting Miss Elsie's sister, Mrs. John Arbuckle, at Central City, this week.

Mr. Clelen Flenner and wife, of Butler county, his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. William Flenner, had a reunion of the family Sunday. All the children and grandchildren were present and a pleasant day was enjoyed by all.
